Aerial Navigation and Growing Knowledge of It.

NEW YORK, July 27.-That the future of the aeroplane as a safe means of conveyance is practically assured was the confident declaration made by Henry Farman, the aeroplane inventor and navigator, who arrived here yesterday on board La Provence from Europe for a series of flights in his now famous flying machine at Brighton Beach. Farman was welcomed down the bay by a reception committee of the Aero Club of America. After two weeks in this city it is expected that Farman will make flights in Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburg and St. Louis. Mr. Farman spoke freely of his plans and work, and when asked what he contemplated attempting next said:

"To do new things. We are all the time moving like birds. You cannot explain these minute details, for they are of changing more or less. Every day brings something new, and I shall try something e new right along."

Aeronaut Talks of the Problem of Allied Liquor Interests Fighting Tooth and Nail Against Re-Election of Gov. Harris.

> Special Dispatch to The Star. COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 27 .- "Absurd." said Henry A. Williams, chairman of the republican state executive committee, when he was asked concerning William J. Bryan's claim that Ohlo was fighting ground this year. "Preposterous," said Arthur I. Vorys, former manager of the

The county leaders of the party do not confine themselves to such formal language when speaking of Mr. Bryan's pretensions as to Ohio. Reference to the matter is sufficient to evoke a snort of derision from the republican fuglemen out in the districts. And yet there are unquestionably a number of unknown quantities in the Ohio problem, and the republican mathematicians here have not familiarized themselves with the solution of equations containing more than one unknown quantity. They have come to feel that Ohio is pretty sure republican

It does not take a very long memory o recall a political somersault in this such an infinite variety. We are always state. Republicans are fond of saying here that while members of their party prove fickle when only state and elections are on, in presidential ears they will pull true, but it was in 892 that the somersault referred to was urned, and an unpopular candidate for the presidency, Mr. Harrison, was the cause of it. S. M. Taylor, republican secretary of state, had been elected to that office two years before by a majority of 110,000. He was able to pull through I used plans of Langley and some of with less than one thousand in that presidential year, while the democrats elected one of their candidates for elector, ran, actually secured one electoral vote

Ticket Must Appeal.

In order that a national election shall prove a brace to the party it is evident, the state very little, in the sense that known to the people of many other states as he is to the people of this state. They have known of him and read about him, but they have seen him very rarely until within the last year. President Roosevelt is still very popular here, and inasmuch as Mr. Taft stands for what President Roosevelt has stood for, he comes in for a share of that popularity. There is a popular notion that Mr. Taft is a cool, level-headed man, and that he would make a fairly good President. On ordinary occasions he ought to be able to command the support of the average Ohio

The negro vote here is of course practically solid republican. In 1900 the census report gave the total colored population of ple from the south have been coming into the state very rapidly since then, but it is methods of conveyance. It will all normally republican and Mr. Bryan so quick. My greatest could get them all it would mean a change of only 50,000-not enough to throw the electoral vote of the state. But by no means all of them will vote for Bryan. Though there were many colored leaders making threats before the nomination of Mr. Taft, not much is heard from them now. There may be a considerable defection of colored republicans, but much more than anything in that line that is likely to occur will be necessary to throw the electoral vote of Ohio to the demo-

Sulking Will Not Help. Where else in this state can Mr. Bryan all chance to get the support of the state for the presidential nomination. There was a good deal to be heard from the senator and his friends along this line before he Chicago convention, but little appears on the surface now. Senator Dick and John R. Malloy, like Senator Foraker himself, have tendered Mr. Taft their congratulations and offered their services in litical game that Mr. Vorys worked in the state primaries last March in the interest of Mr. Taft, and Senator Foraker and his some feeling, but it is not apparent that sulking or giving aid and comfort to the other side would help them just now. The question of succession to Mr. For aker in the Senate next March is likely to cut something of a figure in the campaign if it is not carefully kept in the background. It is evidently the plan of he Taft managers to keep it there, but Representative Burton awkwardly pulled it back into the open last week when, on the eve of his departure for Europe, he issued a card by which he intended state that he was not a candidate to succeed Mr. Foraker, but in effect made it very clear that he would be-after the election. If Senator Foraker is to be expected to help in the election of Mr. Taft an overt movement at this time to place Mr. Burton or any other republican in Senator Foraker's seat must be prevented. It must be remembered that there is an entirely new deal on in the republican organization in the state.
